Course Description: Influences of Criminal Behavior is an upper-level undergraduate level course that serves as an overview of the role of psychology in violent behaviors and the potential role of trauma and the environment. Major topics of focus include: dangerousness and risk assessment, child abuse, battered woman syndrome, violent offenders, sex offenders, and the role of trauma in criminal behaviors.

Course Objectives: Course objectives include: (1) Each student will gain an understanding of the basic literature pertinent to psychopathy, violent offenders, sex offenders, and the role of trauma and the environment through successful performance on two examinations, and their formulation of discussion questions; (2) Each student will demonstrate a comprehensive understanding of violent offenders and sexual offenders by completing a reaction assignment and participating in class discussions; (3) Each student will examine his or her own position regarding current controversies in the field, specifically regarding the potential role of trauma in criminal behavior, by completing a position component of the film assignment.

Course Format:

Classes will be held Tuesday each week throughout the semester. Two of the instructors will be present for each class period. Classes will consist of weekly discussions based on student discussion questions, lectures, video segments relevant to the course topic, and written assignments. Two examinations, a midterm and a final, will be administered throughout the semester. The midterm exam will include all material covered in the first half of the course, previous to the midterm. The final exam will include all material covered in the second half of the course. Students are expected to keep up with readings to facilitate and participate in classroom discussion. Comments, questions, and discussion are highly encouraged during class sessions.

Course Grading:

Each student will be evaluated on the basis of his or her performance on thirteen weekly discussions (twelve of which will count towards the final grade-the lowest will be dropped), two examinations, one reaction paper, one class discussion on the reaction paper, and one other written assignment. Each examination will consist of a variety of questions drawn from lecture and discussion material as well as class readings and oral discussion. Question format will consist of multiple choice, identification, and short answer items. Failure to take an exam will result in a grade of zero for that exam. There will be no make-up exams unless preapproved by instructor. If a student misses an exam, the student must complete a makeup exam within a week of the missed exam to receive credit for the exam. The makeup exam will be a modified version of the original exam.

Each student will have the opportunity to earn up to 20 points maximum of extra credit. Extra credit may be obtained by participating in research through the WVU Department of Psychology and/or by conducting an interview of a Correctional Employee or Law Enforcement Officer (10 points maximum). All extra credit will be due on the April 29th.

Reaction Assignment Paper:

Based on the chapter readings from Patrick (2006), and other relevant readings, what is your understanding of a psychopath? How does the diagnosis of psychopathy relate to violent or sexual offenses? What are the advantages and disadvantages of assigning this label to a person engaging in criminal acts? In your opinion, is psychopathy influenced mainly by biology (nature) or environment (nurture)? In a three to five page typed paper (double spaced, 12 pt. font, 1 inch margins), feel free to incorporate personal reactions, opinions, and/or comments regarding cases in Mind Hunter. Paper is due April 26th.

In-Class Discussion:

In a round table format, students will discuss their reaction assignment responses and additional topics will be provided. In order to receive full credit a student must participate a minimum of two times for a total of 40 points. The two participation comments will have to be a contributing comment and just not an affirmative statement (yes/no). If a student only provides one contributing comment, partial credit will be awarded.

Death Penalty Assignment:

Part One: Evaluate both sides of the death penalty issue by death including at least three pros and three cons for having the penalty. Do not simply list the pros and cons but elaborate with examples and detail in a minimum two page typed paper (12 pt. font, double spaced, 1 inch margins). Part Two: Choose one "side" of this debate and support your position in a persuasive-style essay. Include references to the main character in Monster to support your argument. This part of the assignment should be a minimum of two pages typed (12 pt. font, double spaced, 1 inch margins). Be sure to explore and defend your opinion of the role of trauma on violent offenders. Utilize articles discussed in class and find two to three supplemental articles to support your view. Assignment is due March 29th.

Extra Credit Interview:

Provide a business card and/or contact information from the interviewee. Contact information must include a current, working telephone number. Format for the interview is as follows: (Submit 1 to 2 pages of typed answers). Due April 29th.
